A hit at the Sundance Film Festival, PANDORA’S PROMISE dares to tackle the emerging divide within the environmental movement over nuclear energy through the stories of thinkers, experts and authors who have come to change their minds about nuclear power. Academy Award®-nominated filmmaker Robert Stone interweaves narratives from Stewart Brand, Richard Rhodes, Gwyneth Cravens, Mark Lynas and Michael Shellenberger. Stone pierces commonly held assumptions and provides a captivating deconstruction of myths about radiation, waste and weapons, taking viewers on a mind-altering journey.

Friday April 12, 5:30 pm

Sibley Auditorium, Bechtel Engineering Center
University of California Berkeley

Sponsored by:
Department of Nuclear Engineering, Berkeley Nuclear Research Center, and Nuclear Science and Security Consortium